

F-2
Caltech Doctor Wins Award for Brain Research

A Caltech professor and a Los Angeles industrialist were honored here Thursday night for their contributions to science and industry.

Dr. Roger Wolcott Sperry, a professor of psychobiology at Caltech, was named California Scientist of the Year "for his unique research into the functional organization of the mammalian brain." His award included a $5,000 prize.

Ernest J. Loebbecke, board chairman of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. of Los Angeles, received a bronze plaque citing his "industrialist recognition" for building local firm into a nationwide organization.

Both men were honored at a banquet at the California Museum of Science and Industry.

16—Star-News
FRIDAY, MAY 12, 1972, PASADENA

WINS $5,000 F-1

Scientist of Year Named

Dr. Roger Wolcott Sperry, professor of psychobiology at Caltech, was named California Scientist of the Year at a banquet Thursday night in the California Museum of Science and Industry, sponsor of the awards.

Ernest J. Loebbecke, board chairman of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. of Los Angeles, was named California Industrialist of the Year.

Sperry's award included a $5,000 prize. He was honored "for his unique research into the functional organization of the mammalian brain."

Loebbecke received a bronze plaque citing his "international recognition" for building a local firm into a nationwide organization.

30 Los Angeles Times
Part I—Fri., May 12, 1972

WORK LAUDED—Dr. Roger Wolcott Sperry, professor of psychobiology at Caltech, has been named California Scientist of the Year for his "unique research into the functional organization of the mammalian brain." His award included a $5,000 prize. He was honored Thursday at a banquet at the California Museum of Science and Industry.